DETAILED ACTION

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: The present invention is directed to a hearing aid with a face plate manufactured to a digital model of the user's auditory canal. Independent claims 17, 18, 21, 22, 28, 31 and 36 identify the uniquely distinct feature of a face plate with a matching junction contour, positioning means and engagement means manufactured according to a digital model taken of the user's auditory canal. Independent claim 39 identifies the uniquely distinct feature of receiver vibration absorbing suspension with supporting protrusions co-operating for receiving and holding the receiver and at least one resilient band fixed around the receiver. The closest prior art, Widemar (US6540045) teaches a process for manufacturing, custom-molded ear inserts using three-dimensional image data from a users auditory canal to provide digitized data and modeling; Voroba (US 4870688) teaches a hearing aid with insertable face plate with engagement means. The prior art fails to anticipate or render the independent claims obvious.

The following references were cited: Schmitt (US 5889874) teaches an ITE hearing aid with a prefabricated faceplate; Juneau (US 6228020) teaches an ITE hearing aid with a soft polymeric body and connecting hard face plate cut to form to the contour of the shell; Olsen (US 6430296) teaches a face plate with a battery opening with a passage for an electronics module; Nessler (US 4879750) teaches a shell with a ventilation channel and ear wax guard; Berger (US 6164409) teaches a hearing aid with a recess mounted wax guard; Yoest (US 5970157) teaches a hearing aid with a wax guard and pipe stub extending inwardly into the shell; Yoest (US 6167141) teaches a tightening protrusion extending along the surface of the hearing aid shell to produce a tight fit; and Gore (US 4620605) teaches a hearing aid with a vibration absorbing suspension for the receiver.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
